E. Your Alaska Saltwater Fishing Trip Preferences

In this section, we want to know about your preferences for saltwater fishing trips in Alaska. Even if you have not saltwater fished in Alaska, your responses are important for understanding how people choose fishing trips.

The next questions ask you to choose between two types of saltwater fishing trips (Choices A and B) and doing something other than saltwater fishing in Alaska (Choice C) (see E1 on next page). When making your comparison, please consider only these 3 choices.

The fishing trip choices (Choice A and Choice B) differ in the species caught, the expected number of fish caught, the daily catch limit, the average size of fish caught, and the cost of the choice.

- The main features of each choice are described in each table.
- You can assume that the trips are similar except for the differences in each table.
- The cost is the amount you would pay for this choice and is how much more it costs to choose the fishing trip instead of doing something else (Choice C). It includes consideration of costs for transportation, lodging, renting fishing gear, buying bait, charter services, and other trip expenses.
- Remember that money you spend on fishing trips (Choices A or B) is money that can be spent on other items and activities.

E1 Consider the three choices in the table. Below the table, indicate which of these three choices you prefer most and which you prefer least.

	Choice A	Choice B	Choice C
